

I'M LOSING YOU

Throw the barriers away, cause they're starting to confuse ya, hurt you and abuse ya Leave them for another day, when the same old situation don't bring no complication well I've longed for a road to somewhere and I've laid the ground

And I've dreamed of the unfamiliar and I've heard its sounds

Though now the innocence is gone, There's a fire that's raging on Still I believe I'm losing you

Waiting for the time to go, I'm just staring out the window, trying to find a symbol something soon has got to show cause I'm starting to lose patience, doubting on occasions

Well I feel I'm close to something that I can't define
But I'm sure I'll find the answers if it takes my life

Cause now the inner light is on, and the shadows die at dawn still I believe I'm losing you Don't need no adulation it never played a part Don't need a stone to weigh me down

Just need some affirmation to get me through the start And then I'll find the stars to take me on Whoa oh, yeh
Well I see that road to somewhere, Laid out ahead
And I know the unfamiliar will heal my head though now the innocence is gone Still the fire is raging on and on...
Still I believe I'm losing, I believe I'm losing
I believe I'm losing you

OUR OWN WAY

I've been dropping hints out on the floor Giving subtle glances even more,

I know it's not that cool
She's the one who's easy on the eyes
I know she's seeing through my whole disguise
I guess I'll play the fool

Waiting for the perfect time to come,
Soon I know the moment will be gone,
Can't let her get away
Dreaming of us dancing in the sun,
Telling everybody she's the one
Making up the story as we go everyday
Living out our lives until the end,
More than being lovers we are friends
We're filling out the time,
in our own way, it's our own way

But still there is some distance left to go
So much she's expecting me to know,
I do the best I can Slowly she does come to recognize
I start to the sparkle in her eyes
I think she's breaking down
I walk her to the door and take her hand
Everything exactly as it's planned
I start to float away

Dreaming of us laughing in the night,
Arms around each other holding tight Feeling as the bond between us grows, night and day
Watching all the world around us go,
The secret to our love we only know
We're filling out the time, in our own way, it's our way

Soon we will be dancing in the sun,
Telling everybody we are one
Making up the story as we go everyday
Living out our lives until the end,
More than being lovers we are friends
We're filling out the time,
In our own way, it's our own way

CAROUSEL

Spinning around we've got no destination over again the same songs in rotation
You know that we can't go on, holding this candle too long
But still we will ride as if blind to each other these galloping horses don't touch one another Hiding our heads from the light, no storybook ending in sight
Carousel, this ride goes on and on
Always the same we've got no one to blame but ourselves
Carousel, how much more can we take
Spinning around until someone walks away.
Walk away, walk away

We started out as inseparable lovers moments apart felt like years to each other never a word or a fight, and all indications were right But something we had just got lost in the shuffle Life lived so fast we were destined to stumble Racing through open doors, we never did notice the score

Carousel, we both go on and on Living a lie we just can't break the tie by ourselves Carousel, our hearts can't bear to break Going this way until someone touches ground touch the ground touch the ground

Instead of cutting the wire, we will only delay
Instead of facing the fire, we will always turn away

Carousel, this ride goes on and on
Always the same we've got no one to blame but ourselves
Carousel, how much more can we take
Spinning around until someone walks away
Spinning around until someone walks away
Walk away, yeh, yeh, yeh

DRAGGED DOWN BY YOUR INSECURITY

Standing on the side when you should be jumping in Terrified to lose so you won't even begin
You got one life, gotta go make a story of it
One choice tonight
You better lay it all on line and push it along

You were dragged down by your insecurity,
you were laid out from no caution to the wind
Dragged down by your insecurity,
you were dragged down again

Now you're looking for a love could have had one long ago Waiting on another who will put you in the know
You got thrown off by a slight hesitation

Started doubting all that you know
You better push aside the fear, and see where it goes
You were dragged down by your insecurity
You were laid out from no caution to the wind
Dragged down by your insecurity,
you were dragged down again

Lay a seed and a garden grows Then you will find the light to lead you on Leave behind what will weigh you down
When the moment is right you will know

You got one life gotta go for the glory of it
One choice tonight
You better, stand on the dream, and push it along

Don't be dragged down by your insecurity,
Don't be laid out from no caution to the wind
Dragged down by your insecurity, don't be dragged down again

TURNING TRACK

On down this road of life we seldom stop to breathe Race past the warning signs
And hide them from the scene
We don't want to be there
When the morning comes around
Leave self-deceptions lying underground

But I believe I believe I believe there's a turning track
And in a day in a week in a month we return
So wait around wait around wait around til it all comes back
And in the light in the blink of an eye you will learn

Lie in the bed we make, my mother would always say Beware the plans you break, may find another way
Don't want to leave it, til the bullet hits the bone
You will believe when its following you home
Cause I believe I believe I believe there's a turning track
And in a day in a week in a month we return So stick around stick around stick around til the air comes back
And in the light in the blink of an eye you will learn Staring off in the wind, you fall on your face once more Tell yourself you'll begin to open your minds Cause you're racing through time, and hiding away Better turn on the lights, and turn it around

Cause I believe I believe I believe there's a turning track
And in a day in a week in a month we return
So wait around wait around wait around til it all comes
And in the light in the blink of an eye you will learn

Yeah, whoa oh, you will learn, uh huh
